WOMAN FAINTS, MAN RANSACKS THE HOUSE

A married couple entered the home of Mrs. Dora Goldglut at No. 29 High street, Malden, about noon today, and ransacked the house after her frightened Mrs. Goldglut on the spot. Mrs. Goldglut was found on the front steps unconscious by a neighbor. When revived she told the following story on the police.

"About noon today a man rapped on my door. I told him to come in. When the door opened he was standing on the steps with a mask over his face. He demanded all the money in the house."

"I must have fainted at this time, because I don't remember anything else about him after that. I know when I came to my senses I started out of the house to notify the neighbors and I fainted again on the steps. The only thing I have found to be missing is a dollar bill that was on the kitchen table."

German-Americans Save Italian Ship

ROME, Nov. 15.—A submarine stopped the Italian steamship Milano in the Mediterranean but spared the vessel because there were several German-Americans on board. That was the reason, it was learned, that the submarine boat was "warned" was stated in the announcement here.

Spend $600 to Save New Haven Defective Baby

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 15.—That there is a child in a local hospital whose case in some respect is a counterpart of that of the Chicago Dillinger baby, but that the city has spent $600 in an attempt to save the child's life, was the statement of a local city official today.

The name of the child was withheld.

The child, according to the information obtainable, has diphtheria and pneumonia, is mentally defective and is suffering from an intestinal disease, yet every resource has been taken in order to prolong its life.

Ship Bearing Wheat to Belgians Sunk

By International News Service. AMSTERDAM, Nov. 15.—The Norwegian steamer "Trinken" has been sunk by a mine. Five members of the crew were drowned. The steamer displaced 1,275 tons, sailed from Bergen and was built in 1885. The "Trinken" was carrying 2,500 tons of wheat from America to Rotterdam, to be used to help the starving Belgians when it struck a mine in the North sea. Twenty members of the crew were landed today.

Italy Lands an Army to Help Serbians

TEARS HER DAUGHTER ELOPED

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 15.—The Rev. Milton Beckwith, who faces a grave charge brought by Mrs. Marcia Godding, and who was arrested on that charge Saturday, admitted today that he had signed a "confession" admitting the paternity of the child to be born to Mrs. Godding.

He said he signed the "confession," which also contained his offer to pay her $100 if she would go away from the little Maine community, in the hope of getting Mrs. Godding to go away.

"I signed that statement," he explained, "not because of any troubled conscience, but because I did not want any publicity."

REPEATS CHARGES.

Mrs. Godding, however, today repeated her accusation against the clergyman. "He is guilty," she said, "and he knows it."

A report gained circulation that one of the deacons of the South Auburn church was responsible for the situation brought by Mrs. Godding to the clergyman; but the deacon in question laughed at the report and blamed its origin on the clergyman's account.

The Rev. Mr. Beckwith himself said today that during the past few days he had been blamed for the misfortune of four other of his parishioners, ranging in age from fourteen to sixty-five. He denied these charges, as he denied Mrs. Godding's charge.

With interest in the case at its highest point all Maine is awaiting announcement of the action taken last night at a secret meeting of the boards of the Little Methodist Church at North Fernald on the proffered resignation of the Rev. Beckwith.

MEETING DEFEAT.

Meanwhile, Miss Elizabeth E. Vosmus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Vosmus, of North Fernald, the accused pastor's fiancée, who is reported as having declared her utmost faith in his clergyman's innocence, has suddenly dropped from view. It is explained by her parents that she is attending school in another part of the state and that her absence has "nothing to do with this matter."

While the exact date of the minister's trial on the charge confronting him still remains a mystery, it is understood that he will face a civil action in connection with the case at the January term of the local court.

The meeting which was called to act on the pastor's resignation was held in the Little Methodist Church immediately after the regular Wednesday night prayer meeting. It was attended by the four gray-haired deacons of the church. The Rev. D. B. Ball, district superintendent of the Methodist Church Association, the man who has the final say in the case, was not present. The meeting held behind closed doors for several hours, and before it was closed the Rev. Mr. Beckwith was ordered to leave the premises out of the church.

Harvard's Official O.K. on the Amateur Standing of Mahan

Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of the Harvard Athletic Association, gave the following official statement to the AMERICAN agent the status of Captain Mahan and Tom Kewright:

Mahan was not employed in the White Mountains at any camp, or otherwise, last Summer. He was employed as a counselor at the Harvard Roxbury Tutoring School in New London, a school which was backed and owned by a Yale man.

The nature of the employment was not that of athletic coach in any sense of the word. It was the same kind of a job as Captain Wilson of the Yale team had at the Yale Roxbury Tutoring School, also at New London. In neither case was there any question of payment for athletic services.

As a matter of fact, Mahan has never received a cent for his work there, though he was promised payment. He even paid his own expenses to and from New London.

Everright, I think, had some similar employment somewhere in Maine.

In both cases the Yale athletic authorities have had full knowledge of the circumstances during the entire season, and have expressly stated that no question of professionalism would be or could be raised.

(Signed) FRED W. MOORE, Graduate Treasurer

Boies Penrose Out for the Presidency

SAINT ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Boies Penrose, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, said here that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1916, but refused to discuss his plans beyond saying that he would make a formal announcement later. Mr. Penrose was in San Antonio as one of the party escorting the Liberty Bell from the Pacific coast to Philadelphia.

Despite reports which originated in New Haven and spread quickly through football followers in Boston and Cambridge, it was learned positively this afternoon that the athletic committee at Yale has filed no protest with the Harvard authorities affecting the amateur standing of Captain Eddie Mahan.

Professor Corwin, head of Yale athletics, informed the Boston AMERICAN today that no protest at all had been made nor would one be entered against Mahan.

From Cambridge emphatic denials have come that Mahan's amateur standing has in any way been impaired. Cambridge authorities say with force that Mahan is a "pure" and positively will play for Yale again this year.

In New Haven stories have been circulated that Mahan had been identified as an athletic instructor with a boys' summer camp in the White Mountains. The story also had it that he received money for so doing.

In Cambridge, however, denial was made today that he ever acted as a paid athletic instructor or that he or Everright had ever engaged in summer baseball for other money or board.

The Yale athletic authorities said today.

RUDYARD KIPLING WITH The British War Fleet FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN

His first article will be published in next SATURDAY'S AMERICAN. It tells of the great work of the little fishing boats—"the rovin' travelers built for the herring trade."

They have cleared the British Channel of mines and submarines.

Rudyard Kipling has spent two weeks with the British Fleet. He is the only civilian who has ever seen the greatest navy in the world AT WORK IN WAR. He has also made a cruise on a British submarine.

Five of his unique war dispatches to the AMERICAN will be preceded by NEW KIPLING POEMS.

The first article—published in next Saturday's AMERICAN—has already been copyrighted in the United States, England, France, Italy and Russia, by Mr. Kipling.

APPEAR BY TEUTONS CLAIM NEW VICTORIES

By International News Service. SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 15.—It was learned from high State officials today that Governor Spry has prepared an answer to President Wilson in the effect that he will not reprieve or commute the sentence of Joseph Hillstrom, the I. W. W. poet, sentenced to be shot tomorrow.

A telegram signed by W. Melander, secretary of the Swedish National Society of Chicago, to the representative of 25,000 Swedish-Americans, was forwarded to Governor Spry today, asking him to spare the life of Hillstrom.

Hillstrom is thirty-three years old. He was convicted of the murder of J. C. Morrison and his son, Arling, nearly two years ago.

While circumstantial evidence connected Hillstrom of the murder, his own attempts to defend himself in court and his refusal to tell where he was on the night of the crime help to make him a case for sympathy. His story was that he was in a married woman's room on the night of the murder and he declared he would rather die than ruin her good name. This story was not credited by the authorities, but Hillstrom did meet a woman who he bore in his right shoulder was due to his visit to the woman's home.

Hillstrom was arrested three days after the Morrison murder and blood tests showed that the Morisons had bled their assailant.

Matters of extreme political and military importance with reference to the Balkans were discussed at a five-hour session of the Italian cabinet on Wednesday, were a home table. The ministers were called into a second session late in the evening and were still in session at midnight.

More than customary secrecy was observed about both sessions, the dispatch says, no attaches of any of the government ministries being admitted to Premier Salandra's office, while their appearance were in session. Employees of the ministries continued on Page 2, Column 1.

EXPERTS SWEAR BURNS DIED FROM THE EFFECTS OF POISON

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 15.—The story of the autopsy on the body of Frank Burns, charged with wince murder his wife, Mary, in an trial here, was told in court today.

Q.—What did you find? A.—I found the body of a man, lying on the floor in a room in the Walker house.

Q.—Who did you find there? A.—Dr. Fred Fernald, his brother, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Jones. Others came in later.

Q.—What did you do after that? A.—I had the body removed to the kitchen and performed an autopsy.

Q.—What did you find? A.—A chronic condition of the heart, valvular trouble. In the stomach, there was an odor, as a result of which we tied off the stomach and removed it.

Q.—What was that odor? A.—"Peculiar by poison."

Q.—Were there indications of poison in the stomach, that your examination revealed? A.—Yes, that was why I sent it to Dr. Whitney.

Q.—What did you find Burns died of? A.—He died of poisoning by cyanide of potassium.

Dr. William F. Whitney of Harvard Medical School was the next witness. He testified that he examined the stomach of Burns and found in it a fluid containing a deadly poison.

Q.—What was that poison, doctor? A.—It was cyanide of potassium.

Q.—What would you say as to the size of the dose taken? A.—I should say a large dose—five grains or more.

Mrs. Burns was charged with poisoning her husband by giving cyanide in his whiskey.

The story of the autopsy was told by Medical Examiner John G. Knowlton, and the result of it was narrated by Dr. W. F. Whitney of the Harvard Medical School, who analyzed the stomach's contents.

They testified that Burns had valvular heart trouble; but that his death was due to cyanide poisoning.

Mrs. Burns and her mother, accompanied by the wife of Deputy Sheriff Shaw, who is acting as Mrs. Burns' counsel, entered the court together and sat together inside the bar enclosure.

WOMEN IN COURT.

The court room was well filled, and a number of women were present.

Medical Examiner Knowlton took the stand, and his testimony went as follows:

Q.—Do you remember being called upon to go to Nottingham? A.—Yes, on the morning of December 22, 1914.

Q.—Did you go? A.—Yes, I got an automobile and arrived there about 3 in the afternoon.

Strangely Acting

Man Held in Salem

Frank Crane, who claims Boston as his place of residence, was picked up on the streets of Salem today by Officer King. Crane was walking aimlessly about and talking in an irrational manner. At the station house he said he was a trap-drummer for the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

He claimed to be able to drink 200 glasses of whiskey in one day, and offered to prove he could do so. When arrested, Crane was not intoxicated.

ALICE COUGHLAN TO MARRY PIERCE

PIERCE HEIR TO WED FATHER'S EMPLOYE

A romance of unusual interest is behind the engagement of Miss Alice Coughlan of Wollaston, to Parkman D. Pierce, Harvard '14, son of Wallace Pierce, millionaire head of the S. & P. Pierce Company. The engagement was announced today.

How the couple first met was told by friends of the couple. Graduating from Harvard, young Pierce—his is twenty-three—entered the office of the Pierce Company. In the office Miss Coughlan was employed as the operator of an adding machine, friends declared.

Naturally, the son of the head of the company was introduced to the office staff.

"Mr. Pierce, this is Miss Coughlan," the formal introduction, they said, was worded something like that. Nobody at the time suspected that Coughlan had a hand in it, probably not even the principals themselves.

But out of the routine of the office there sprang a friendship between the son of Miss Coughlan's employer and the young Wollaston girl, and deeper love, friends of the couple declared.

And today Mr. and Mrs. Michael Coughlan, of No. 901 Hancock street, Wollaston, announced the engagement.

Miss Coughlan is twenty and is one of the "Coughlan twins." The twin sister is Miss Mabel Coughlan. Both are beautiful, and are leaders in the younger social set of Quincy.

Miss Alice graduated in 1912 from the Quincy High School, and some time afterwards entered the office of the Pierce Company. Her father is an inspector of equipment on the Bay State Street Railway system.

The date of the wedding has not been announced.

Plumbers' Union of

Salem Fined $200

The Plumbers' Union of Salem has been fined $200 by the national body for violating certain rules of an agreement made with the master plumbers when the strike was called off in that city last Spring. BOY TAKEN AS BURGLAR, PUTS UP FIGHT

After a desperate struggle, Ella W. Husk, seventeen, of Lillingston street, Roxbury, was arrested early today, charged with breaking and entering the drug store of Charles R. Brown at No. 215 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury.

Reserve Officer Coughlan of the Dudley street station was attracted to the store by the shadow of a man moving inside. He investigated and found that the transaction over the front door had been forced. He peered into the store again and claims to have seen Husk attempting to conceal himself from view by standing face of a telephone booth.

The policeman ordered him to come out, but he refused. Coughlan took his rifle and went and climbed into the store through the transom. Husk was prepared, however, and as soon as the officer was inside he attacked him. They clinched and wrestled for several minutes, but Husk was overpowered.

The struggle attracted the attention of Patrolman Driscoll, who stood outside the door of the store, while Coughlan hoisted the prisoner to him through the transom and charged with the larceny of this property.

When Husk was searched at the station house stairs and money worth at $250 were found in his possession. He was also charged with the larceny of this property.

The Department of Justice, through the United States attorney at Boston, has begun an investigation of reports of a combination between the United Drug Company and other Boston firms to determine whether there has been a violation of the anti-trust laws. Thanksgiving Day Proclamation by Governor Walsh

Governor Walsh has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

"With grateful hearts the people of the Commonwealth have been wont to set aside each year a day for the national purpose of turning to their Heavenly Father to thank Him for His loving care and for the manifold gifts He has bestowed upon them."

"During the past year God's blessings have been multiplied in our land. We alone among the great nations have been saved from the awful horrors of war, our fields have yielded abundant harvests; our commerce is fruitful; our public health has never been better safeguarded; our educational efforts are showing well gratifying success, and we are realizing more and more the blessings of a free government in which the voice of the people, whose interests are so much at stake, can be heard upon all questions."

"As we ponder these things, and the promptings of gratitude lead us to ask of our hearts what we shall render to the Father of the Universe for all that He has rendered to us, we are conscious that an acceptable offering to Him who needs not the gifts of the rich or the mighty will be the praise and thanksgiving which, all, even the poor and the weak, have full power to render."

"Therefore, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, I appoint Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November of this year, of our Lord nineteen hundred and fifteen, a day of Thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God."

"To public and in private, in church, in school and in our homes, let us thank and praise Him, and pray for a continuance of His blessings. He has bestowed upon us, as well as individuals, are under His care, dependent on Him, and responsible to Him, let us pray for our Commonwealth and our country, that He may prosper the councils of those who govern, and give them wisdom, courage and strength to fulfill the solemn duties which confront them, and also that He may aid and guide the citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to be true to the principles of high ideals of a free people, unshaken by corruption, unsullied by selfish motives."

"By International News service, LONDON, Nov. 15.—It is reported here that controlled, lame and dead have been made redrafted for service in the front," says an American dispatch to the Central News Agency.

For the first time in the history of the city the women will vote at the elections which come on Thursday and Friday nights. IN OPERA

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

A memorable performance of "Yakima Hutterly and a quartet" called "Kumonga" rewarded the singer with a standing ovation. Selected to sing "Swing High," a popular singer in the high art Boston Opera House last night.

In the first act, he sang "I'll Give You a Star" from a score by Louis Lerner. The critic, who was not a devotee of the song, said that it was a pretty good one, if not a great one. He also said that Martin's performance was well done. In the second act, he sang "I'll Give You a Star" from a score by Louis Lerner. The critic, who was not a devotee of the song, said that it was a pretty good one, if not a great one. He also said that Martin's performance was well done. In the third act, he sang "I'll Give You a Star" from a score by Louis Lerner. The critic, who was not a devotee of the song, said that it was a pretty good one, if not a great one. He also said that Martin's performance was well done.

Boston American Editorial Columns

The AMERICAN disapproves of a loan to prolong the war in Europe and is unwilling to accept any money for advertising such a loan. The AMERICAN does not, however, feel at liberty to accept the money of the Government of the proposition of the loan, whether in news text or in advertising. The AMERICAN disapproves the advertisement of the loan, but does not believe the money paid therefor to the Red Cross, in the hope of relieving some of the suffering and injury which a war loan will inevitably cause.

Every Time That Voters of Massachusetts Have Had the Chance They Have Declared for the Initiative and the Referendum

ONE of the overlooked but interesting items of the last State election is to be found in the returns for the legislative district in which lies the town of Andover.

Under the so-called Public Opinion Bill, a certain number of voters of any particular district may cause to be placed upon the ballot a question concerning any legislative measure. The question was placed on the ballot whether or not the voters of the district wanted a constitutional amendment which would enable the people to exercise the power of the Initiative and Referendum, by which a good bill that a bad Legislature persistently refuses to pass can be enacted into law by the direct vote of the people themselves, and a bad bill which a bad Legislature had insisted upon passing can be vetoed by a direct vote of the people themselves.

This is the system which rescued Switzerland from the slough of corruption and bossism in which she wallowed before her people in despair adopted the Initiative and Referendum. It is a system they are enjoying in that splendid democracy of New Zealand and in the progressive Western States. The people of the Ninth Essex district voted upon this question as follows: Seven hundred and sixty-one voted in favor of the Initiative and Referendum and only 252 voted against it. Therefore, the people of that district favored it by a vote of three to one.

Last year the same question was submitted to the people of the Eighth Bristol in New Bedford, with a result that 2,655 voted FOR the Initiative and Referendum and only 1,121 voted against it. The same question was submitted in the First Hampden in the western part of the State, and 953 voted FOR the Initiative and Referendum and 300 voted against it, more than three to one in favor of the Initiative and Referendum. In the Fourth Middlesex, our great middle county, 3,576 voted FOR the Initiative and Referendum and only 1,576 voted against it, being more than two to one in favor of the Initiative and Referendum. In the Fifth Middlesex District 2,803 voted FOR the Initiative and Referendum and only 746 voted against it, being almost four to one in favor of the Initiative and Referendum. In the Seventh Norfolk District 1,307 voted FOR the Initiative and Referendum and only 274 voted against it, being five to one in favor of the Initiative and Referendum.

Thus in six legislative districts where the Representative from that district was opposed to the Initiative and Referendum his people voted in favor of it by pluralities going as high as five to one and in no case less than two to one.

In the last six years the candidates for Governor endorsing the Initiative and Referendum have obtained a majority of the votes of the citizens of Massachusetts. In this last election the total number of votes given to candidates who declared for the Initiative and Referendum was more than 493,000, being a majority of the votes cast for Governor by twenty thousand.

The utter ineffectiveness of mere public opinion to obtain legislation which the special interests do not want is shown clearly enough in the conduct of the Legislature toward the Initiative and Referendum. This year the Republican organization, led by Calvin Coolidge, then President of the Senate, succeeded in preventing a rollcall on the Initiative and Referendum in order to save the Representatives who came from the districts which had declared for the Initiative and Referendum from being obliged to have their votes recorded.

The rollcall is the only means by which the people can know what their representatives are doing. It embalmers their votes upon the records of the State. Nothing is more useful to the student of human nature and politics than a rollcall in the Legislature on one of those measures where public opinion has something to say. Time and time again anyone who watches a legislative session will observe a performance somewhat as follows: The Speaker calls for a voice vote on a particular bill. Let us say it is in favor of giving a six-cent fare to the Bay State. A tremendous "Aye" goes up. Then some doubtless spirit, fighting for the right, rises in his place and demands a rollcall. Immediately there is a great scurrying around on the part of the gentlemen who voted "Aye" in an effort to prevent the man who demanded a rollcall from getting the necessary thirty votes which are required before a rollcall may be insisted upon. But when thirty votes are obtained and the rollcall begins and the names begin to be read and each man has to announce his vote, it is a matter for the light-hearted of "laughter, flutters and jeers" to observe how the gentlemen reverse themselves, and how that tremendous "Aye" begins to vanish into a weak "No."

But when the rollcall is defeated the lost protection of the public is gone—weak and unsatisfactory as that protection too often is.

Fundamental to all other reforms stands the Initiative and Referendum. What it did to Switzerland it can do for this State and country.

More Truth Than Poetry

Westward the Course of Gnomes Takes Its Way

Kansas, in endeavoring to shake off the reputation for rusticity, has formed an "Anti-Aint" society. THE chaps that fashion rural plays no more find types of Hicks and jays. Of bumpkins, boobies or rustic rubes. Among the Kansas burdock. The Kansans all know how to write as well as William Allen White. And they debate affairs of state. As well as Victor Murdock.

IN Kansas hardly any one would ever say, "I seen 'em done." The folks would faint if you said "Aint." Along the classic Kaw. The hired man who milks the cow and acts as pilot of the plow. Has learned to think like Maeterlinck. And talk like Bernard Shaw.

ALTHOUGH from Oregon to Maine the people talk the language plain. And say, "It's me" and "Yes, I be" Around the stores and dairies.

The people of the plains have left the gripping of the culture belt, And Henry James, not Jesse James, Is worshipped on the prairies.

LET Massachusetts have a care, let even old New York beware; The Sunflower State, though starting late, Has burst her lingual fetters. And though Seth Low and Cabot Lodge still try to work the high-brow dodge, The hay-strewn joys of yesterday Can give 'em points in letters.

Mystery of the Ether

From One Point of View It Seems to Be Nothing, While from Another Point It Appears as the Basis of Everything in the Universe

By Garrett P. Servis

"A SAYS that the ether of space has been resolved into seventy-three elements, giving as authority a Chicago University professor. It says that the composition of the ether of space is a total mystery. Who is right—A. G. B. is right. But he would have done better by not using the word "composition" at all. If what we call the ether is a substance it must be an element and not a compound. The conception of such a medium, filling all space to the remotest star and transversed through all matter, is purely hypothetical. It represents a verdict of science based solely upon circumstantial evidence.

Science needed the ether to explain other more tangible phenomena, and so she invented it, or inferred its existence. But she had no right to it. It is, apparently, of the most contradictory kind, which makes it a nondescript as tested by the ordinary laws of physics and mechanics.

It was the effort to solve the mystery of light that led to the invention of the ether. Newton thought that light consisted of particles shot off from shining bodies. Later science rejected Newton's idea and substituted for it the theory, proposed by Huygens, that light consists of waves or undulations traveling through space. But the existence of waves implies the existence of something which can undulate.

That something science calls the ether. It is the most ubiquitous of all things. The hypothesis that light consists of waves of an average length of about 145,000 of an inch, and vibrating at an average rate of 450 trillion times per second, is borne out by every observation of science, and this accordance of facts with theory constitutes the real basis of belief in the ether.

Not only light waves but other waves which produce no sensation of light are transmitted by the ether. This is true, for instance, of electro-magnetic waves. It is sometimes said that we have no test of the existence of the ether through any of our senses. "We cannot either see, hear, taste, smell, weigh or measure the ether." True, but our eyes have a physical proof of its existence in the sensation of light. We do not see the air, but we possess a circumstantial evidence of its existence in the impression made on our ears by the waves of sound, which are simply undulations of air, and this would suffice if other proofs were not available. No light and similar phenomena are ether waves, and the impressions they make upon us are a proof of the ether's existence.

But when it comes to describing the ether and inferring what its properties are the trouble begins. Thus, according to the calculations of Maxwell, the ether must be 240 million times more rigid than glass, but, at the same time, 1,000 trillion times less dense than air. The sun and the stars move through the ether with velocities of many miles per second, but it offers no resistance to their motion.

It seems to pass through their substance, however solid they may be, with infinitely more ease than the wind passes through a dove. Comets—lighter, bulk for bulk, than air—dart through the ether with no retardation. And yet this same ether is said to resemble an absolutely incompressible solid. I shoot out my fist, and I feel the sooty yielding air; but I do not feel the absolutely unyielding ether which is there and everywhere!

According to some thinkers ether and matter are fundamentally the same, the familiar properties of matter, such as, for instance, those that constitute what we call a solid body being due to special states of aggregation. Ether has also been regarded as identical with electricity, and, since matter is now believed to be purely electrical in origin, we thus come back to the conclusion that ether is the one fundamental thing underlying all the phenomena of the universe.

To return to the original question. Instead of the ether of space being resolved into seventy-three elements, matter, which is only a form of the ether, scattered in fragments here and there, has been so resolved, each of these elements, however, being only a special manifestation of the one universal thing, which, tested by the laws of matter, is nothing, but, regarded from another direction, is the basis of everything.

Woman's Need; the "Highest" Education

By Rev. Mahel Irwin

I AM asked if the higher education of our girls tends to be mothers and home-makers. Higher education may unfit them, but not the highest. Since some religion, politics and all the sciences converge to the upbuilding of the home life and families of a nation, woman's highest education will serve to fit her to make a finer home and a more intelligent mother.

Not only so, but through and by this education she will be a mother by choice and not by compulsion. She will not only choose her mate, but she will choose the when and how many of her children. The uneducated, uninformed woman of the past had to be sure, the privilege of choosing her husband (theoretically, at least), but the educated, informed woman of today will choose, not only her husband, but will choose when she will become a mother. Until this freedom is granted woman in marriage, and the men from whom she must select her mate measure up to clean moral living our young girls are likely to endure both home-making and motherhood. It is as natural for most women to desire motherhood and home as it is for the apple tree to blossom and fruit on the hillside, but the young college-bred women of today will only have these things on conditions.

This may result, for a time, in fewer homes and fewer children, but what is lacking in quantity will more than be made up in quality, and this, instead of being a deplorable state of things, is one which bespeaks hope and good cheer for future generations.
